7. Consideration and possible action to approve a Variance Request for 15 Floral Hills Lane, Fulshear, Texas 77441

Michelle Killebrew explains she understands the board would like to hear from the Fire Marshall regarding building setbacks. As far as residential goes, building setbacks and building requirements are held under the building department (Chief building official's authority). The minimum residential setback to a property line is 5 ft. where they do not have to have any firewalls. Per Michelle Killebrew they do meet the minimum requirements for this request. If, in chance, you were to get a variance request for 3 ft. or 2 ft. or even a 0 lot line, what we need to be looking at is the zoning. Once that is approved, the building department looks at fire codes. With the 5 ft. setback, they are still in compliance. Amy Pearce asks, according to their drawing it looks like they didn't have the 5 feet? Per Michelle Killebrew, they are going right to the 5 foot. Typically, you have 5 foot from the property line of the house and you have 5 foot from the other property. This one does not. They have 5 foot. The 5 foot is still access for both property owners to be able to work on their side properties. The neighbor has submitted a letter saying that they have no problem with this. Amy Pearce states the drawings submitted shows that they are using up 7 feet of the 10 feet. K.C. Arnold states that there is actually 12 feet between the homes. Michelle asks: All of the 12 feet is on this property (15 Floral Hills). Mr. Arnold states that is correct. Michelle states there is a 0 lot line on the other side. Michelle Killebrew states they still have 5 foot. Amy Pearce asks Michelle if this gets approved, if she will take care of this if they have to add a firewall. Michelle says "yes". Jason Cherubini asks for the notes reflect that PnZ was relying on the subject matter expert. Michelle says this doesn't have to go through council. Per Michelle they still have to go through the permitting process and verify building codes. Diana Offord states we do not have a letter from the neighbor. The Commission members state there is a paper included in the packet signed by the neighbor.
